DANIEL KANE, RECIPIENT OF UD AWARD

DAYTON, Ohio, June 18, 1986 -- Daniel J. Kane, former director of communications for the Archdiocese of Cincinnati, will receive the University of Dayton's first Religious Communications Award on June 20 at a special ceremony held at UD.

The award, named in honor of Kane, will annually recognize an individual who has made a significant contribution to religious communications in the United States. UD president Brother Raymond L. Fitz, S.M. will present the award.

Kane has served as assistant executive secretary for the archdiocesan councils of Catholic Men and Women and assistant director of the Archdiocesan Bureau of Information. He received the Papal Medal, "Pro Ecclesia et Pontifice" by Pope John XXIII in 1962. In 1964 Kane and his wife, Mary, organized and chaired a commission on the rights of children, which was held at the National Catholic Family Life Convention in Washington D.C.

Also attending the award ceremony will be Cincinnati Archbishop Daniel Pilarczyk, Auxiliary Bishop James Garland, and Bishop Norbert Gaughan of Gary, Indiana.
